

Learning Solutions

MSX Learning Solutions enable Movers and Makers to deliver measurable business results, powered by our unrivaled expertise and global presence.

In today's highly competitive industry, motivated, engaged, and capable people are your key to success. Our portfolio of Learning Solutions enables your team to stay ahead of change. Our immersive training and innovative learning solutions influence hundreds of thousands of people every year, helping them to reach their full potential.

Our competence development methodology begins with our ability to leverage your business data – including financial and operational performance indicators – and use it to develop actionable insights. With this, we can identify learning needs at an individual and organizational level. This methodology combines the transfer of knowledge and skills through training, and the application of knowledge and skills through coaching.

On an ongoing basis, we will measure the impact of training and coaching on the individual and on the business by monitoring the business performance indicators that we aim to influence.

We work with you across your business – from the factory to the store

The automotive business is complex, and each function has its own learning needs and priorities. Our automotive Learning Solutions reach multiple domains within the automotive and mobility industry.

Whether you want to strengthen the competence of your people, or those employed by your partners in distribution, retail and aftersales, you will benefit from our deep understanding of your business and our unique ability to work across all aspects of your operation.

Sales, commercial and product training

We drive conviction, competence and confidence amongst sales teams, moving the needle on sales, market share and customer experience.

Aftersales and technical training

We maximize the performance of your aftersales teams and the efficiency of your workshops, improving fix-it-right-first-time (FIRFT) rates, customer experience and workshop profitability metrics.

Manufacturing and production training

We train your factory staff at scale – whether for a new manufacturing line, or to support continuous improvement in your manufacturing processes.

Leadership training

In partnership with renowned universities, we develop the management and leadership skills of current and future generations of leaders who drive your business and your partners' businesses forward.

Other specialized training

We conceptualize, design, develop and deliver specialized learning and development programs that equip your teams with the knowledge, skills, and tools to perform to their full potential.

Engagement models tailored to your needs

We are flexible, agile, and responsive. Our engagement models are tailored to your specific needs and priorities.

Whether you'd like us to develop a complete training strategy and deliver it to your teams, or tailor a Learning Solution responding to a specific business opportunity, we will help you build confidence, trust, and loyalty with the people who matter.

Full-service BPO

Operating as your 'extended enterprise', we are deeply integrated into your organization, and manage your training operation as an end-to-end, full-service business process outsourcing (BPO) engagement.

On-demand projects

With our 'on-demand engagement', we deliver custom solutions to your specific requirements in an agile manner using our talent, expertise, thought leadership and proven processes.

MSX digital learning platforms

We offer our digital learning platforms via a software-as-a-service or license model to enhance your learning initiatives.
